Question no.6: [Continuing a discussion about the woman covering her face]

Shaykh al-Albaanee (رَحْمَةُ اللَّهِ)¹ answers:

“Ibn ‘Abbaas and Ibn ‘Umar, from the foremost of the Companions (رضي الله عنهم)², explained the Aayah ‘except only that which is apparent’³ to be the face and the two hands. And they (those who claim that a woman must veil her face) did not find a single authentic narration from the Companions (رضي الله عنهم) with which they can support their opinion that it is obligatory to cover the face of a woman.”⁴
